REC. 11-2-04
ABC RATESShelby County: Characteristics of the Construction Environment

The majority of construction companies and employees within the county are not covered by collective bargaining agreements. Around 98% of all construction companies and their employees are open shops and are not signatory to collective bargaining agreements.

In Indiana, the attached chart shows:

- 1) the union membership as a Percent of Employment in Indiana, and
- 2) the union density in the construction industry from 1983 through 2002.

It shows that union members make up only 32.6% of the construction workers in the state. So, Shelby County, shows less density than the state, in regards to a union workforce.

Based on the above facts, even using the State of Indiana's numbers: With two-thirds of construction wages paid in Shelby County as open shop rates and not collectively bargained, the wages below represent the most commonly paid construction wages in Shelby County at this time.

Classifications of craft and classes – construction wage survey information for Shelby County, (5-16-7-1 a 1-b, Wage committee meets for the purpose of ascertaining what the common wage is in the county). Common construction wage means a scale of wages for each class of work ... that is not less than the common construction wage of all construction wages being paid in the county where the project is located.

All wage information is from Shelby County employers or contractors licensed in the county. To ensure confidentiality, the information is presented in summary form in order to prevent individual company information from being shared, and to avoid any appearance of antitrust implications.

Stipulation as to employment of apprentices as semi-skilled: Apprentices will be permitted to work at the semi-skilled rate for the class of work when they are enrolled in an apprenticeship program registered with the U.S. Department of Labor, Bureau of Apprenticeship Training or as employees in training. Their wage rate will be governed according to the standards of their registered program along with their ratio to journeyman, which is 1-1.

The above percentages used for semi-skilled and unskilled (75% & 60% respectively), were based on the system of incremental increases encouraged in the traditional apprenticeship training model. (See attached documentation of certification).
